A large and enthusiastic group of directors and members of the McKinney Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday afternoon in the C. of C. offices for the first regular meeting this fiscal year.

President Audie Turrentine presided over the meeting which was opened with prayer by Dr. T. R. Leen, pastor of the First Christian Church.

Minutes of previous meetings were read by Manager Pat Simpson, and treasurer and auditing reports were given by J. M. Whisenant.

F. D. Perkins reminded members of the forthcoming annual East Texas Chamber of Commerce convention to be held in Longview, and urged a large delegation from McKinney. The local organization has sponsored Truett Smith of Wylie as a candidate for president of the ETEX CC this year.

Miss Madeline Moses, chairman of the membership committee, submitted a budget of $13,338 for 1958, which was approved and accepted, and also announced 27 new members have been enrolled this year bringing the present membership up to some 350. Sower Of "Seeds Of Friendship" Kiwanis Speaker

A. E. (Patty) Mozier of Glendale, Calif., was guest speaker for the regular meeting of the Kiwanis Club here Thursday evening. Known as "Patty Gardenseed," he has traveled over the world spreading "seeds of friendship."

Mozier's story began three years ago when he was serving as an engineering officer for the American President Lines and in Korea. He saw a 4-year-old girl collapse. He rushed the child to a hospital in his jeep but she was dead upon arrival. The doctor said it was a case of malnutrition.

Mozier decided to do something to help the starving peoples of the world and since that time has handed out some $500,000 packages of vegetable seeds to Indonesians, Philippinos, Indians, Siamese, Chinese, Japanese and Koreans.

On his first trip to spread the seeds of friendship around the world he drew $1,500 of his savings, and purchased packages of seeds. Now his funds come from donations which is used to buy more seeds. With each packet distributed, he adds "thank you" notes to the donors. "For one dollar I can buy 30 packages of seeds, which is $20 worth of food," he stated.

He was introduced at the meeting by Earl Myrick, program chairman for the evening.

The club welcomed W. B. McCallum as a new member. McCallum, formerly with the Kansas Power and Light Company, moved to McKinney a short while ago and with his wife resides at 307 Morris Street. He is a brother to Obe McCallum, past president of the club.

Lloyd Hamiltons Occupy New Home

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hamilton and children have recently moved into their new home at the corner of Bonner and Graves streets in Northwest McKinney. The Hamilton's came to McKinney about three years ago from Tulia, in West Texas. Mr. Hamilton is a building contractor, and has built homes for several families since he has been here.

Bill Furr is a patient in City-County Hospital.

Facilities Of New Collin MemorialHospital

In the Obstetrical Wing there are two private rooms and seven semi-private rooms, for a total bed occupancy of 16 patients. In the Surgical Wing there are two strictly private rooms and two contagious or suspect private rooms, 17 semi-private rooms and one four-bed ward for a total bed occupancy of 42 patients.

This gives us 53 patient rooms with a bed capacity of 100 divided as follows: 10 rooms designated as strictly private; 41 rooms disignated as either private or semi-private, and two rooms designated as four-bed wards.

As you can see, we would take care of 51 patients and give each of them private room accommodations, with eight additional patients in the four-bed wards making a total bed capacity of 59. As our census in the hospital goes above 59 we could reduce the number of private rooms availble as such for each patient received in the hospital, so that with an average daily census of, for example: 60 patients we could offer 50 private rooms, 70 patients 40 private rooms, 80 patients 30 private rooms, 90 patients 20 private rooms.

All of the private and semi-private rooms are 20 by 12 feet and were purposefully built this size so as to provide adequate space and facilities to care for two patients in an emergency. Each room is equipped with adequate clothes storage space, hot and cold water with lavatory and connecting commode and in certain instances complete bath facilities, also equipped with adequate lighting facilites for two patients, two-way comunication system for two patients, and oxygen outlets are double in each room, telephones are available in each room. Forty-one rooms which may be used as private or semi-private are equipped with flush wall pull-out curtains which give a high degree of privacy to each patient when it is occupied by two patients.

Our average daily census at City-County Hospital has been 51 patients for the past two years.

Truett Smith To Head ETEX CC Committee

James M. Windham, president of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, has announced the appointment of C. Truett Smith, Wylie, as chairman of the Resolutions committee of the 32nd Annual East Texas Chamber's Convention.

Imposters Solicit Uniform Orders From Professional People

Pat Simpson, Manager of the McKinney Chamber of Commerce, cautioned local doctors, dentists, nurses, dietitians, dental hygenists, and all who wear a professional type uniform, to exercise caution in giving cash in advance to strangers taking orders for uniforms.

The manager stated that although there are many legitmiate salesmen soliciting orders for uniforms, hundreds of professional people throughout the country have ben swindled by bogus, itinerant salesmen who falsely claim to represent well-known uniform companies. "These impostors," the manager stated, "many have all the appearance of being on the level. They carry samples and can talk convincingly about their line. They may or may not, have an order pad bearing the manufacturer's name. One notorious uniform swindler has been highly successful in obtaining deposits despite the fact that he gives receipts on plain unidentified receipt forms.

"As a general rule," the manager continued, "the fake uniform salesman will seek a deposit, the balance to be paid C.O.D. When the uniforms fail to arrive and inquiry is made of the manufacturer whose name was used, the victim learns that the salesman does not represent the company."

All those using professional-type uniforms can help to protect themselves against this racket by exercising caution in dealing with unknown uniform salesmen. If in doubt, call the local Chamber.

One of the largest sales probably ever consummated by an individual, has just recently been completed in Dallas. Stanley Dennis, 1507 West Virginia Street, this city, assisted by J. B. Walliser of Dallas, made the sale for the U.S. Plywood Corporation. Dennis is sales manager for the Dallas regional office.

The sale was made to the J. W. Bateson Company of Dallas, general contractor for the Fort Leonardwood Capehart project, comprising 1329 dwelling units. Over 600,000 square feet of plywood and plastic plywood were sold for just under one million dollars, to be used in the project, located at Newburg, Mo. This is one of the largest projects under the Capehart Act, to be used for housing army personnel at Fort Leonardwood.

Dennis has been with th U.S. Plywood Corporation for the past five years, during which time a number of sales have been made, amounting to large sums, but he believes this to be probably the biggest deal of this kind ever handled by his company.

Collin County Citizens Establish Better Roads Group At Meeting

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

By BURTON FIELDER
In Farmersville Times

A Collin County Better Roads Committee was formed recently as a result of a countywide meeting at McKinney Country Club.

Twenty McKinney merchants were hosts for the dinner meeting attended by more than 100 county residents. George W. Smith, McKinney mayor, welcomed guests, and A. H. Eubanks, McKinney banker, presided at the business session.

Purpose of the meeting was to get county representatives together to discuss Collin County highway improvements.

• • •

COUNTY PROBLEM NOTED.

W. E. Button, county judge, said "The problem facing us now is to decide whether to extend existing state highways on through the county. If we decide to do this, a new tax will be necessary."

Judge Button explained that the proposed tax would be 15-cents per $100 evaluation.

"Collin County has completed farm-to-market roads each time the highway commission has approved such a road," Judge Button explained. Other counties, where farm-to-market right-of-way must be purchased instead of donated, have not been able to get these roads, be said.

"The way for Collin County residents to get back tax money now being sent to Austin is to match the sum with a like amount," Frank W. Cawthon, Dallas district engineer of the Highway Department said.

"Law provides that counties must pay one-half the money to purchase right-of-way," Cawthon explained. "Then state and federal funds are added to complete projects which have received the Highway Department's approval."

• • •

ENGINEER TELLS PLAN.

Collin is now sending $32,000 to Austin from sale of vehicle license tags. By putting up a like amount, the county would get back their $32,000 from Austin plus additional funds, the engineer explained.

"It boils down to this," Cawthon said, "Raising $32,000 in Collin County will get you $750,000."

• • •

TAX STRUCTURE EXPLAINED

Roland Boyd, McKinney lawyer, explained the county tax structure and pointed out that our county operates at substantially lower cost than surrounding areas.

Pointing out need for a road program, Boyd said surveys have been made for right-to-way on several highways in the county.

These surveys include 121 from McKinney city limits at highway 75, to Fannin County, a distance of 16 miles; highway 78 from East Fork to Farmersville, then north to Blue Ridge to join highway 121, a distance of 27.5 miles; extend highway 289 from highway 24 to Celina and the Grayson County line; continue highway 75 (Central Expressway) from McKinney to Grayson County; complete highway 24 from Farmersville to Hunt County, a distance of 3.7 miles.

• • •

LAND PURCHASE REQUIRED.

Completion of these proposed projects, Boyd explained, would require the purchase of 1795 acres

MARIGOLD.

Annual marigolds are of three rather distinct types known as African, French, and dwarf. Since they have somewhat different requirements, they are discussed separately.

African marigold is the tallest type, and during recent years many fine new varieties have been developed. It has a rather spreading type of growth and is well adapted to herbaceous or shrubbery borders. The various varieties are the ones commonly called marigolds by American gardeners. The leaves and flowers are strong-scented, and range of color is from sulfur yellow to orange. Seeds may be sown early indoors or outside when the soil is free from frost.

French marigold is more compact and regular in growth than African marigold, and for this reason it is more valuable for bedding or low borders. It forms an erect, compact plant covered with bright yellow to orange flowers. Seeds may be sown outdoors when the soil is warm or started six weeks earlier indoors.

Dwarf marigold forms very compact plants rarely more than eight inches in height and bearing finely divided leaves. The plants bloom profusely and are ideal for edging flower beds.

FERTILIZERS SHOULD BE BOUGHT BY GRADE

The real cost of any fertilizer is measured in terms of the per unit cost of plant nutrients applied to the soil. So, before farmers buy a fertilizer, they should look at the grade analysis and see if the same quantity of plant nutrients can be obtained cheaper in a higher analysis fertilizer, advises Bill Bennett, extension soil chemist.

The grade analysis can give a farmer this information because it tells how much nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium each bag of miexd fertilizer contains, he adds. For example, a hundred pound bag of 5-10-5 contains five pounds of nitrogen, 10 pounds of phosphoric oxide and five pounds of potash. A hundred pound bag of 10-20-10 contains 10 pounds of nitrogen, 20 of phosphorus and 10 of potash.

These two grades of fertilizer contain the same ratio of nutrients, points out Bennett, but the latter contains twice as much in each 100 pound sack. So, even though the 10-20-10 costs more per ton, it is normally cheaper in the long run because of the quantity of plant nutrients which is obtained.

The cost per unit of plant nutrients is not the only way high analysis fertilizers are usually cheaper than low analysis fertilizers. When one sack of 10-20-10 can substitute for two sacks of 5-10-5, transportation costs are reduced. Not only would transportation costs be lower, but application costs would be less since less fertilizer is needed to supply the same quantity of plant nutrients.

So, low analysis fertilizers cost less per ton, but high analysis fertilizers are usually cheaper in the long run because the cost per unit of plant nutrients is lower.

McKINNEY MEN AT MISSILE TEST CENTER

Col. H. E. Warden (right) and SP-3 Jack P. Evans (left) pictured above, are two former McKinney men, in the Air Force Missile program stationed at Patrick Air Force Base in Florida.

Colonel Warden, son of Gen. and Mrs. John A. Warden of McKinney, is deputy commander at the Missile Test Center, while Evans is assigned to Army Ballistic Missile Agency at Cape Canaveral Missile Test Annex. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Evans, R-5, McKinney.

The two missiles shown on the desk are Air Force Bomarc, a supersonic long-range air defense missle, and the intercontinental Snark, which was flown on its internal guidance system from Cape Canaverral to an impact area off Ascension Island, 5,000 miles towards Africa.

The SM-62 SNARK, maufactured by Northrop Aircraft, Inc., is an intercontinental range strategic missile powered by a Pratt and Whitney J-17 turbo-jet engine, rated at 10,000 pounds thrust. It is a surface-to-surface pilotess bomber with a self-contained stellar-inertial guidance system. The SNARK is 69 feet long, 15 feet high, and has a wing span of 42 feet. Two high-thrust booster rockeas attached to the long, slender fuselage assist the missile initially in reaching its high subsonic cruising speed. Flown 5,000 miles for the first time on October 31, 1957, it is in production and is being assigned to units of the Strategic Air Command.

The Bomarc (IM-99), a long-range pilotless missile designed to intercept and destroy enemy aircraft while they are far from American borders, is manufactured by Boeing Airplane Co. It is 47 feet long and has a wingspan of 18 feet, two inches. Its rocket motor is produced by Aerojet General Corp., and the ram jet engines by Marquardt Aircraft Co. This ground-to-air missile is not fired in a straight line at a target, but is capable of maneuvering in the air seeking out an enemy in a manner similar to a piloted fighter plane. Bomarc destroys itself at the same time it destroys its prey. Its speed is supersonic, and its altitude is "extreme." Rocket power is used for takeoff and twin ram jet engines for cruising.

The Snark and Bomarc are only two of several missiles being tested at the Air Research and Development Command's Air Force Missile Test Center over the 5,000-mile test range extending from Cape Canaveral, Fla., Southeastward to Ascension Island in the South Atlantic Ocean.

In addition, Cape Canaveral is the launching site for earth satellites. One such project is the Navy's Vanguard, which represents the initial phase of United States participation in the International Geophysical year.

From here, the Army using a Red Stone Missile, put the Jupiter C Explorer into orbit.

Responsibility for the Vanguard's technical aspects rests with the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory. The Martin Company is the prime contractor for the launching vehicle, which is a three-stage rocket 72 feet in length. It is shaped like a rifle shell, and measures 45 inches in diameter at its base. The 21½-pound satellite will be carried in the third stage.

The rocket is finless, of integral tank construction, and has a gross take off weight, with propellants, of 22,600 pounds. The first stage, which will lift the entire three-stage rocket to a point about 36 miles above the earth at a peak velocity of 3,700 miles per hour, has as its fuel supply liquid oxygen and kerosene. The second is also a liquid-propellant rocket, while the third stage employs solid propellant. This final stage is spun while in the second stage, and is fired at the orbital height of about 300 miles. It provides about 50 per cent of the required orbital velocity of 18,000 miles per hour.

The test center at Patrick AFB operates the world's largest proving ground for guided missiles, its mission to establish, maintain and operate the Florida Missile Test Range and its supporting facilities for the purpose of conducting tests and collecting test data on guided missiles, controled targets, drones and allied equipment for the Air Force, and the Army and Navy when directed; to support AF contractors and other governmental testing agencies; to evaluate tests performed by the AF or AF Contractors, and to conduct and support all testing and operational training.

The Test Center does not build guided missiles, and does not launch armed missiles, but provides research and development facilities to test and evaluate them. It provides the test range, assures the safety of the range area, and while the missile is in flight its technicians gather information on its performance. This data is analyzed and improvements made until the missile meets the requirements of the particular branch of the service involved.

Patrick Air Force Base is located on Highway AIA on a narrow coastal strip which separates the Banana River from the Atlantic Ocean on Florida's central east coast.

The history of the base began in World War II when it was built as the Banana River Naval Air Station. After the war it was deactivated, and then, in 1949, transferred to the Air Force. In August, 1950, the base was formally dedicated, named after Maj. Gen. Mason Patrick, first chief of Army Air Services.

The base, one of 14 AFMTC installations, houses much of the administrative and logistical functions of the Missile Test Center. It has two runways, one 4,000 feet and one 10,000 feet. The base has a field elevation of nine feet.

Colonal Warden, who assumed his responsible assignment in Florida about a year ago, has been in the service for 18 years.

His miltary training began at Texas A&M College where he was a student for two years. He later graduated from Catholic University in Washington in aeronautical engineering, and did post-graduate work at Massachusettes Institute of Technology in Boston.

NEWS FROM THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS — of — THE COLLIN CO. SOIL CONSERVATION DIST.

Five new conservation plans were signed by the Collin Soil Conservation District Board in their recent regular meeting held in McKinney. The new cooperators were M. F. Lucas of Leonard, Lucille Reed of Trenton, Locke Griffin Estate and Sam Chesney, Jr. of McKinney, and N. H. Watson of Dallas.

"There is a need for establishing thousands of acres of permanent grass cover and many other practices such as waterways, terraces, and cover crops on the watersheds of our district," Wood commented. "The flood prevention structure work is essential but the land treatment is of prime importance and it is being applied too slowly," he added.

The board made plans to issue its' quarterly newsletter to encourage farmers to take advantage of the remaining few weeks of the season for pasture and waterway sodding. They wanted to especially urge farmers who started waterway establishment jobs in previous years under the Agricultural Conservation Program of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and with SCS assisting to make every effort to complete these jobs this year.

Posters, bulletins, and church program bulletins were ordered in preparation for Soil Stewardship Week activities, May 11-18 has been designated this year for national observance of this event.

Popular Patrolman To Work With Units In Collin County

SGT. EVERETT N. BRANDON

Sgt. Everett N. Brandon, member of the Texas Highway Patrol for some 20 years, has recently been assigned an area including Collin, Grayson, Fannin and Lamar Counties. This is a sub-district of the Dallas District, Texas Highway Patrol, the new assignment becoming effective on March 1.

Sergeant Brandon, one of North Texas' most popular patrolmen, spent 13 years in McKinney, during which time he and his family became endeared to a host of friends. He has been with the Patrol for over 20 years, serving in the Tyler area for 18 months after leaving McKinney. He was transferred to Sherman, Grayson County, in September '55, having been area supervisor for the past two and a half years.

A native of Paris, most of his life has been spent in North and East Texas. He was with the Highway Department four and a half years before transferring to the Patrol division.

His popularity as an officer has grown from day to day because of fair dealings with his fellowman and unstinted efforts to uphold the law at all times. Firm in his convictions concerning the enforcement of traffic laws, Sergeant Brandon never fails to show courtesy or understanding when questioning a violator.

He has appeared before numerous civic, service and study clubs in McKinney and elsewhere, lecturing the importance of observing traffic regulations and urging the cooperation of all drivers. The hundreds of lives lost each year through careless and negligible driving are most appalling to Sergeant Brandon.

The new assignment will bring him into McKinney on frequent intervals as he works with patrol units here and as far South as Richardson.

The Brandons will continue to reside in Sherman at 1007 Blanton Drive, where Mrs. Brandon is employed in the J. C. Penney store, and their son, Howard, is attending Austin College. It is hoped by their many friends here, that at some future date they will return to McKinney to make their home again.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Darnell spent the week-end in Oak Cliff in the home of their son, Claude Darnell and attended the wedding of their granddaughter, Miss Bobby Bryan and Robert Coons in Dallas Saturday night.

W. Sims Cameron is a patient in Baylor Hospital, Dallas. His host of friends wish for his speedy recovery

Dr. Autrey To Speak At Baptist County-Wide Rally Friday

REV. C. E. AUTREY

Dr. C. E. Autrey will be the main speaker at a county-wide evangelistic rally to be held at the First Baptist Church in McKinney on Friday evening, March 21. The program is under the direction of Rev. P. E. (Bill) Jones Jr., pastor of the First Baptist Church of Wylie and director of evangelism for the county. The purpose of the meeting is to further inspire the people of the churches in the county to make an all-out effort to win the lost during the Simultaneous Revivals which begin in a large number of Baptist churches in the county, Sunday, March 23.

Dr. Autrey is chairman of the Department of Evangelism at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary and is one of the most sought-after speakers in the Southern Baptist Convention. He has served as the preacher for some of the greatest revivals in Texas including one at the First Baptist Church in Dallas which resulted in the largest number of additions of any meeting in their history.

The leaders of Baptist work in the county felt that they are extremely fortunate in securing Dr. Autrey, and it is their fervent hope and prayer that the First Baptist Church auditorium can be filled to capacity that evening. The sog service will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. A nursery will be provided for children under four.

West Collin Farmer Makes Business Trip To Washington

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kerley of Frisco, returned recently from Washington, D.C., where he discussed farm legislation with Congressmen from this area and visited other government offices. Making the same trip were about 131 other members of the Farmers Union Arkansas, Illinois, North Dakota, and Texas, who were part of a series of such delegations going to the national capital this winter.

Mr. Kerley reports that his week's stay in Washington was highlighted by hearings on farm proposals before Congressional committees and by the Adminstrations's strong appeal for continuation of military and economic foreign aid along with a renewal of trade agreement authority and by President Eisenhower's strong defense of Secretary Benson against Congressional criticism.

Mr. Kerley says his visit to Washington impressed him of the value of strong organizations to keep Congress and administrative officials advised of farmers' difficulties. He reports that most of the people in official Washington showed keen interest in viewpoints brough direct from the country by such means as the Farmers Union trips.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerley especially want to praise such men as Sam Rayburn, Lyndon Johnson, Ralph Yarborough, Wright Patman, Clark Thompson and Joe M. Kilgore. The Senator and Congressmen understand our farm problems and are doing all they can to assist us. We were extended a warm reception from all of these. Mr. Kerley is president of Collin County Farmers Union and also president of his local chapter No. 134 Union.

Nautical Rules Make Travel On Waterways Safe

Travel on waterways, just like highway traffic, has a set of rules to follow. These eight basic regulations should be adhered to make every boatman a good boatman, according to the Evinrude Boating Foundation.

1. Meeting. When two boats approach each other head on, each steers to starboard (bears right, that is) so as to pass port side (left) to port side. In the Great Lakes and certain rivers where there are channels with strong currents, the vessel going downstream, or down-current, has the right of way over the one which has the current against it. That is because it is easier to control a vessel going against the current than it is to steer one being carried along by the current.

2. Overtaking. When one boat is overtaking another, the one doing the overtaking must keep clear of the one being overtaken. However, If you are in a narrow channel and are being overtaken by a larger, deeper draft vessel, it will be easier for you in the small boat to swing to the side of the channel and let the big fellow have the deep water. This is one of the situations in which you do not always insist on your right of way.

3. Crossing. A motorboat which has another in its so called "danger zone" from dead ahead to two points abaft the starboard beam —roughly from translated that means coming from your right) must give way to it be altering course to go under its stern, by slowing down, or, if necessary, stopping or reversing. By the same token, if you have a boat approaching your port side (coming from your left) you have the right of way.

4. Leaving slips, wharves and piers. Boats coming out of slips into open water, or leaving berths at piers and wharves, have no rights until they are entirely clear. Therefore, they proceed with caution and at low speed.

5. Sailboats always have the right of way over power boats except in the not very likely possibility of a boat under sail overtaking one under power. Courtesy also requires that sail-boats while racing be given a wide berth. If you have to pass closely to a sailboat, do so slowly and on the leeward side (the side on which it is carrying its main boom) so as to cause the least possible disturbance from your wake.

6. Fishing boats whether anchored or underway with nets, lines or trawls out, have the right of way. Take it eacy when you are passing a fishing party.

7. Tows. Although under certain circumstances power boats have the right of way over tugs with barges in tow, it is not only good manners, but sound seamanship to kield the right of way because a small motorboat is a good deal more maneuverable than a string of barges.

8. Accidents. In cases of collision, capsize, fire, or other serious accidents, it is the duty of boatmen to stand by and render all possible assistance. It is also a tradition as old as the sea itself that mariners always go to the aid of those in distress. The good boatman is always ready and willing to offer a tow, or loan gasoline to a fellow water sportsman who has suffered an engine break-down or run out of fuel.

Wylie Cage Games Benefit Dimes Drive

Chairman O. Ed Smith Jr. announced that the 1958 March of Dimes drive was concluded on Tuesday night, March 10, with a double-header basketball game in Wylie.

The McKinney men's Independents team beat the Wylie men, 66 to 54, while a group of McKinney and Allen girls lost a 46-33 contest to a team composed of Wylie and Community lasses. Both games were well played, and over 100 spectators braved cold, rainy weather to contribute $42 to the March of Dimes fund.

Wylie school officials were very kind in allowing the use of the gym, and Tommy Gray and Doc MacCallum refereed both games.

Lion Baseballers Win Second Season's Game

By NORMAN SCOTT

Coach Rusty Talbot s McKinney High Lions baseballers copped their second straight non-conference game with a 12-6 win over the Richardson High Eagles Tuesday afternoon at Richardson.

• • •

JENKINS TAMES EAGLES.

Righthander Don Jenkins, senior letterman, went the distance against the Eagles and was never in danger as his mates bombarded the Richardson hurlers. Third baseman Don Holmes connected for two doubles and a single, and catcher Jerry Hall cracked out three singles to pace the Lion attack.

Their other win was chalked up last week against the Plano High Wildcats by a score of 7-2 in the opening game of the Richardson four-team tournament. Rain and cold stopped play, and if the tournament is resumed, the Lions will meet the winner of the Richardson-Carrollton game for the championship at a later date.

• • •

LANE SPOTS WILDCATS.

Tommy Lane, a freshman righthander, allowed the Wildcats only three hits and contributed to his own cause with three hits, including two doubles. Holmes also had two doubles. Centerfielder Jerry Miller cracked a two-bagger with the bases loaded that led to the downfall of the Plano nine.

• • •

WORKOUTS LIMITED.

Although the cold and rainy weather has played havoc with a big portion of the workouts the past two weeks, Coach Talbot is pleased with the showing of the squad in their only two outings.

• • •

FRESHMEN LOOKING GOOD.

Five freshmen, Lane, Hall, Mike Justice, Tommy Carnes and Mike Jenkins, have shown a lot of promise with Lane and Hall expected to be regulars. The other three will probably see considerable action during the campaign. Lane, who has a good fast ball and a fine curve, has a lot of "savvy" for a youngster and will probaby be a pitching mainstay along with Don Jenkins. Hall is one of the best young ball players ever in McKinney, and stardom is predicted for this youngster. He is consistent at the plate and can clout the long ball along with being a steady performer at shortstop or catcher. At the present time, Hall is handling the catching duties as Denny Horn, a returning regular behind the plate, is having some scholastic difficulties. Horn is expected to become eligible in the near future, and if so, Hall will take over the regular short-stopping chores. Lane is also a good hitter and will patrol right field when not on the mound. Justice, Carnes and Jenkins are all fine looking prospects with Justice slated to see some action at third and short. He held down the shortstop spot in yesterday's tilt. Carnes and Jenkins will likely see duty as relief pitchers, and spot starters.

• • •

VETERANS ON SQUAD.

The remainder of the squad is manned by returning veterans with Holmes holding forth at third, Vic Petricka, a classy fielder, at second, and experienced Don Wharton at first. In the outfield, Robert Joplin gets the nod in left, Jerry Miller returns as the regular center gardener, and Lane and Don Jenkins will alternate in right. Other outfielders are Sam Hitchcock and Richard Simmons.

PLAY DENTON TODAY.

The Lions will journey to Denton this afternoon with the Broncs scheduled to come here Friday afternoon in a return engagement. Two more games are on the non-conference slate, at Lewisville, April 1 and Richardson here, April 3.

• • •

OPEN AT PARIS.

District play gets underway April 8 with the Lions opening against the Paris Wildcats at Paris.

The locals will probably play their home games at the VA Hospital Park this year.

DISTRICT SCHEDULE.

LETTERS FROM . . .

THE PEOPLE

Mr. Tom W. Perkins II, Editor
Courier-Gazette,
McKinney, Texas,
Dear Editor:

This is the first letter I have ever written to a newspaper of any city, but I have always felt that McKinney was a fine city, and corrective measures would be taken in cases where the citizens deemed it necessary.

On the night of February 18, 1958, I had the misfortune of being a passenger in an automobile traveling through the City of McKinney on highway number 75. The driver's name was Mr. Frank E. Brown, who is one of the slowest drivers I have ever ridden with. Between Dallas and McKinney he was driving between forty and forty-five miles per hour at all times. At that rate of speed I had been wondering if we would ever reach our destination, which was a point in Oklahoma. Upon reaching the city limits of McKinney, the driver slowed to a speed of twenty-eight to thirty miles per hour. When we were just outside the city limits of McKinney we were stopped by one of your police officers by the name of Taylor. The officer issued a "citation" to Mr. Brown and told him: "We allow up to 40 miles per hour, but I clocked you at fifty miles per hour. Because you were nice I will give you a ticket for forty-five miles per hour." Mr. Brown signed the ticket while still in the car out on the highway and we proceeded to go down to the police station in McKinney to see if we could have a hearing at that time. When we reached the station Mr. Brown was informed by a lieutenant in the office that "if you don't sign that ticket, the only thing I know to do is throw you in jail." Seeing that no good was being done, Mr. Brown hired a lawyer from the city of Dallas. Last Monday, which was March 10, we appeared in the City Court of McKinney to have a hearing. After trial, which lasted about one hour before your judge, who happens to be the mayor, and as I understand, hires the policemen, Mr. Brown was pronounced "guilty" of speeding and ordered to pay a fine of $10.00. Since there was one other passenger in the car besides myself who was willing to swear that Mr. Brown was not going thirty-five miles per hour, it seems that a person cannot get justice in the City of McKinney. All three of us in the car, including Mr. Brown, work for the U.S. Treasury Department. As you probably know, we are screened by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Secret Service Division of the Internal Revenue Service before we are hired for such a position. It seems to me that the judge of any court would weigh our testimony carefully, but it went for naught against the words of ONE city policeman in the City of McKinney.

Enclosed you will find a check in the sum of $1.00 made payable to the City of McKinney, which I would appreciate you delivering to the proper persons. If the City Government is so "hard-up" for money as to render a verdict so unjust as Mr. Brown received, I would like very much to make a donation, so that some other poor soul may not have to suffer such an unjust verdict as Mr. Brown was subjected to. I am sending this same letter to the other newspaper in your town, hoping that one of you will be brave enough to publish it.

Very truly yours,
R. B. WHITE, JR.

Bob Ledbetter Family Moves To McKinney

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ledbetter and children, Barbara, 15, and Bobby 12, have recently moved to McKinney from Portales, N. Mex., and are temporarily residing at 502 North Tennessee Street. They expect to buy a home here in the near future.

Mr. Ledbetter has purchased the Ledbetter Drive-In Sandwich shop from his brother, Joe Ledbetter, and has already assumed management of the business. He has completed redecorating the building, enlarging parking space, and will add outside tables for convenience of customers during the summer season.

Joe will continue to personally operate the sporting goods shop and service station adjoining the eat shop.

McKinney welcomes this new family into the realms of the business, civic and social life of the community.

Jim P. Love, who has been a patient in the Gaston Hospital, Dallas, for the past few weeks, has been removed to his home there where he is recuperating nicely. He is the son of Mrs. Earl P. Love of this city and a son-in-law of General and Mrs. John Warden.
